

STIR Research Privacy Policy

Our commitment to you!

STIR Research is committed to protecting your personal and professional information, as our valued Subscribers, as well as prospective trial and former Subscribers. This privacy policy sets forth our pledge to you that we will keep your nonpublic personal and professional information secure and private and use it only in connection with providing our tactical research to you in establishing, servicing, and maintaining your subscription registration. Our main objective is to provide you with the superior level of unbiased research you deserve.

How and why STIR Research collects nonpublic personal information from you.

We collect personal, and professional, information from you on our subscription registration process, agreement, and/or other forms. This information includes, for instance, your acknowledgement as a registered financial advisor or institutional investor, your name, broker/dealer name, address, and payment authorization forms. As a publisher of subscription based registration research, we provide payment service through Authorize.net who will collect financial information about you to authorize payment of the STIR Subscription Fees. Authorize.net will collect, for example, personal information including name, address, phone numbers, email, payment and billing information, which includes credit card numbers, expiration dates, and recurring billing data. This profile specifies the credit card account to bill, the associated contact information, the amount to charge each billing period, (monthly in arrears), of the agreement. When you submit your data, Authorize.net generates the new profile, activates it, and automatically performs the billing on the specified schedule. As time goes on, your profile stores both the configuration information that is supplied and the transaction and payment history for your account. Information may be collected from other sources with your consent, for example, broker/dealer, or third party billing.

How STIR Research protects your personal information.

We will not sell information about you, prospective or former Subscribers to third parties under any circumstances.

STIR Research Online Privacy Policy.

We consider privacy and security in our online operations, conducted through our Website at www.stirresearch.com to be just as critical as any other facet of our business operations.

“Cookies” and other web tools.

We do not use cookies to pull data from your hard drive to view in cookies created by other Web sites. If cookies or other Web tools information are collected, we will not share any information with others or permit others access to this information.

Integrity and Security.

We use encryption and other technology to store personal information gathered online with the intent of providing a secure environment that is protected from unauthorized third party access, alteration, theft, or misuse. We believe our systems and hardware are effective for these purposes. However, we cannot guarantee the security of the information you transmit to us.

You may wish to keep a copy of this notice for your files. If you have any questions concerning this privacy policy, please contact us toll free at (970) 749.7907.